

BALTIMORE

MARYLAND

NETHER

Street artist, social instigator, bane of slumlords

• "I've always wanted Baltimore to be known for what it does about its problems rather than just its problems," says this self-taught street artist who finds vacant properties and beautifies them with colorful, socially conscious murals. And since last summer, as a principal behind a project called Wall Hunters, he's used his art to draw attention to run-down buildings and the slumlords who won't fix them. He has seen some of the buildings razed, his murals gone but his mission accomplished.

• Wool coat ($2,705), wool sweater ($394), cotton shirt ($294), and cotton trousers ($591) by Etro.

USS Torsk
"The Galloping Ghost of the Japanese Coast."

→ The Route PICK UP 295 SOUTH TO US-50 WEST ...